The town's Department of Planning will conduct a community planning forum on housing affordability at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 15 in the Pine Point School library.

The forum is designed to answer questions about affordable housing and offer options for addressing community needs. With the price of homes soaring in recent years, the town has created an affordable housing committee to study the issue and make recommendations.

The speaker at the forum will be David Fink, policy and communications director for the Partnership for Strong Communities in Hartford.
